

Citizenship Policies in the New Europe

Expanded and Updated Edition

Edited by Rainer Bauböck, Bernhard Perching and Wiebke Sievers

The European Union's enlargements of 2004 and 2007 have greatly increased the diversity of historic experiences within the EU as well as its contemporary conceptions of statehood, nation-building and citizenship. How did newly formed states determine who would become their citizens? How do countries relate to their large emigrant communities, to ethnic kin minorities in neighbouring countries and to minorities in their own territory? And to which extent have national citizenship policies been affected by new immigration and by integration into the EU? The expanded and updated edition of Citizenship Policies in the New Europe describes the citizenship laws and their historical backgrounds in the EU's twelve new countries and the accession states Croatia and Turkey. This work complements Acquisition and Loss of Nationality, a two-volume analysis of the EU's fifteen old Member States also published in the IMIS COE-AUP Series.

Authors: Andrea Baršová, Eugene Buttigieg, Agata Górny, Constantin Iordachi, Priit Järve, Elena Jileva, Zeynep Kadirbeyoglu, Mária Kovács, Kristīne Krūma, Dagmar Kusá, Andre Liebich, Felicita Medved, Dorota Pudzianowska, Francesco Ragazzi, Wiebke Sievers, Daniel Smilov, Igor Štikis, Judit Tóth and Nicos Trimikliniotis

"A unique analysis of citizenship policies in the countries of the most recent wave of EU enlargement, plus Turkey. The contributors provide deep insights into the complex histories of nationality in these countries and the challenges they now face in managing national and ethnic identity issues."

-- Martin Rhodes, University of Denver, Colorado

"By extending the common framework of the NATAC study to the 'new Europe', this volume provides the first systematic comparison of these important cases, thus giving scholars and policymakers a more complete and accurate picture of citizenship policies throughout the European Union."

-- Marc Morjé Howard, Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.

"I know of no other comparable collection that combines this breadth of coverage with the characteristic depth of analysis."

-- Michael Collyer, Sussex University, Brighton

"This work is a worthy completion of the most impressive research ever done on European citizenship laws. For a change, European moneys well spent."

-- Christian Joppke, American University of Paris
