

Bespoke training - Contract law

FEEDBACK FROM CLIENTS

"Excellent trainers - clear, engaging and had lots of useful things to say".

"They really understand the topics from a practitioner's point of view."

Edinburgh Law school provides bespoke contract law training, as well as an annual seminar series to legal and business professionals across the UK.

Types of training and approach

The team have designed and delivered bespoke training and continuous professional development sessions to the legal profession and those involved in business activities. Trainers include

Professor Laura Macgregor,
Chair of Commercial Contract Law

David Cabrelli,
Senior Lecturer in Commercial Law

Lorna Richardson,
Lecturer in Commercial Law.

Training has been delivered to top law firms in Scotland, as well as the public sector, advocates, judges and business professionals.

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH

Contract law is at the core of the work most solicitors do. It is fundamental to business activities and to the economy. Our trainers can provide training on any aspect of contract law, with training and materials tailored to suit clients' needs.

Training can be delivered to specific groups, for example, trainee solicitors or a specific practice area, or can be designed to suit an audience with differing experience and expertise.

Large and small group sessions can be catered for, as well as interactive sessions, where problems or case studies can be considered.

"The trainers were excellent - they spoke very confidently and in an engaging manner. They clearly knew their subject matter inside out. They were also good at facilitating discussion."

As well as bespoke training our trainers deliver a number of contract law events each year. Our training is delivered by presenters who are experts in their field, who combine research expertise with practical insight.

Prof Macgregor and Lorna Richardson deliver an annual contract law update which considers all major Scottish and English cases and statutory developments in the last 12 months (for details visit: <http://www.edinburghlawseminars.co.uk/contract-update-2017>)

The Benefits

The University of Edinburgh contract law training team is in great demand, with many law firms and other professionals booking bespoke training annually. The annual Contract Law Update is a must to ensure legal professionals are up to date with all important developments. The materials provided are an essential update to any law library.
